

Over 2,000,000 To Register In State

Gas Rationing Period Nearing

Motor Car Owners In Pennsylvania To Register Next Week

DATES ARE SET FOR NOVEMBER 12-13-14

By TONY ZECCA (L. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 5.—More than 2,000,000 Pennsylvania motorists today were directed to report to public schools throughout the state on Nov. 12, 13, and 14, to register for nation-wide "mileage rationing" which will go into effect on Nov. 22.

Approximately 900,000 car owners from 24 non-rationed counties in Western Pennsylvania must drastically curtail pleasure driving for the duration when the gasoline rationing program becomes effective.

The school registration was originally scheduled for the earlier part of next week, but delays in the delivery of necessary materials from Washington promoted the postponement.

Superintendent of public instruction Francis B. Haas stated that Eastern Pennsylvania motorists already under gas rationing will be required to register the serial numbers of their four attached tires and the spare. The non-rationed motorists must register both their tires and cars in order to receive a basic 16-gallons-a-month "A" ration book.

Require Tire Inspections

Dr. Carl D. Mornewick, director of the school rationing registration, pointed out that motorists will have to have their cars and tires inspected every two months beginning Dec. 1. "The attendant at the inspection station," he said, "will check the serial numbers on the tires and relay the data to the local war price and rationing board."

The periodic serial number checkups for tires are expected to eliminate tire thefts and black tire markets.

"Dr. A. C. Marts, executive director of the State Defense council, has notified all local chairmen that they should provide volunteers to aid the school staffs if there is an insufficient number of registrars," Mornewick said.

He urged car owners to have the necessary information on automobiles and tires prepared in advance to facilitate registration. Registrants will be asked for the motor vehicle license number, state, make of car and type of body.

The non-rationed counties in Pennsylvania are:

Erie, Warren, McKean, Cameron, Elk, Forest, Crawford, Mercer, Venango, Clarion, Jefferson, Clearfield, Cambria, Indiana, Armstrong, Butler, Lawrence, Beaver, Allegheny, Westmoreland, Somerset, Fayette, Washington and Greene.

Kadens Is Sent To Asylum For Rest Of Days

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 5—Irwin Kadens, Chicago army deserter who turned desperado in a career of crime extending over four states, today was sentenced to spend the rest of his days in the asylum for the criminally insane at Menard, Ill.

Within a span of two hours, Kadens was found insane yesterday in criminal court and was sentenced to the institution for criminal insane by Chief Justice John A. Sbarbaro. The testimony, in which the bandit was held to be a schizophrenic, was supplied by five psychiatrists.

The verdict of insanity was pronounced Kadens jumped up and shouted:

"I protest. I want to be tried on a death penalty offense."

ALLIED FORCES PUSH FORWARD IN NEW GUINEA

The Australian infantry pushing along the jungle road had effective support from the air. Allied attack planes strafed the Japanese positions at Oivi, nine miles beyond Kokoda, and intervening points as far as Buna.

During the night heavy bombers strafed the Japanese bases at Alama and Lae, New Guinea, where reinforcements may be gathering for transfer to Buna. The village and port area were heavily bombed.

Numerous fires were started and one tremendous explosion, believed to have been caused by a direct hit on an ammunition dump, threw debris several hundred feet into the air.

Dili was the chief target of the raids on Timor, but the communiqué gave no details of the results. This enemy base has been under almost constant attack during the past week. Bombs were dropped also on the villages of Maobisse and Alley on Portuguese Timor.

The Allied forces driving across New Guinea were making steady progress. Unrelenting bombing and strafing attacks were said to have smashed the enemy's resistance.

clusive will register on November 12. Names in letters from H to P inclusive will register on November 13 and names in the letters Q through Z will register on November 14.

Applicants for gasoline registration cards must bring with them to the registration board, their owner's license, the numbers of his five automobile tires and where the number has been obliterated must say so, the number of his $5 federal license stamp. Application forms OPA R-534 may be obtained as gasoline stations, rationing offices or at registration points. Where possible the applicant should fill out the application before going to the registration point.

An applicant who requires more than four gallons of gasoline per week, the basic ration, may apply for a supplemental ration on separate forms which will be available at registration points. These applications shall be mailed to the rationing boards. Special applications are also required for trucks, fleets of passenger cars and for non-highway use. The only books which will be issued at the registration points are A and D, pleasure cars and motorcycles.

school and he was born on July 4, 1878, at Providence, R. I., while flags waved and firecrackers boomed in honor of Independence Day.

BIRTH DATE SYMBOLIC

There was something symbolic in this birth date, for the patriotic note was strong in Cohan's work as his songs, "Little Johnny Jones," "George Washington, Jr.," "Gee, Ain't I Glad I'm Home Again" and "The Yankee Prince" testified.

Shortly after the turn of the century he joined the late Sam Harris' theatrical producer, and as partners for the next 15 years they produced more than half a hundred plays, revues and comedies. At one time they owned six theatres in New York and Chicago.

When the world war came Cohan plunged into doing his bit. His greatest song-success, "Over There," came to him as he was on the way to his office. He began humming the tune and the song "Just about wrote itself," he said.

Nora Bayes took it and sang it and the nation's armed forces gave it a thundering obligato as they marched to it and whistled it. The song sold 3,000,000 copies and President Woodrow Wilson's secretary, Joseph Tumulty, sent off a note one day:

"Dear George Cohan: The President considers your war song, 'Over There,' a genuine inspiration to all American manhood."

Congress voted him a gold medal "in recognition of his services" in the world war.

Russian forces on the Black sea coast have wrested the initiative from the Nazis, said the army newspaper Red Star. In a day's fighting according to the midnight communiqué, 400 German troops were slain. The enemy drive on this front has made no progress in several weeks.

Washington is carrying this serial-story idea to far. When we read about a victory, we hate to wait a month for the losses.

UNION STAMP

ALASKA'S ROLE

MILITARY trucks now crowding the newly-completed highway to Alaska are carrying the means of preparations to one of the most strategic spots in the Pacific. For purposes both of offense and of defense the role of Alaska in the war will be of ever-increasing importance.

There is only one feasible Pacific route pointing toward the heart of Japan and that is by way of Alaska and the Aleutians. Forces and supplies flowing in that direction from island bastion to island bastion will have the shortest haul, cancelling much of the advantage on the score of distance now enjoyed by Japan in the Southwest Pacific.

Alaska likewise offers the possibility of an offensive union with Russia through Siberia. An air route already connects the two. Complete equipment and mobilization of the Alaskan base will result inevitably in an overflow of strength in Siberia for the final closing in on Japan. Unconquered, Alaska is in position to veto any offensive action Japan might attempt against the west coast of the United States by outflanking it.

The highway to Alaska is teeming with the things that will make that territory impregnable and put punch into an American offensive. It solves the problems of American supply routes in the Pacific more nearly than any other one step that has been taken. Alaska may prove to be of tremendous advantage in discharging the hard tasks ahead.

JOHN DOE SPEAKS UP

In the light of Tuesday's Republican sweep, every political leader, every columnist, every poll taker, will have his own explanation of why the voters of the country rose up and sent so many Democrats back to private life.

The political leaders of the Republican party will attempt to prove that their leadership and the work of their associates did the trick. And they'll be wrong in the assumption.

The columnists no doubt will bring in a lot of extraneous reasoning why the landslide happened, with friends of the White House claiming some subtle influence and use of money, and critics of the White House pointing out that this is a repudiation of the administration's policies. And that isn't entirely right either.

We claim no psychic powers to give a crystal clear reason why the thing happened, but like every one else we have our own ideas. To our way of thinking the huge Republican vote was a vote of protest, not against the war, not against all the administration's policies but against some inept leadership in Washington.

We believe the people are weary of the Pollyanna philosophies of some of the starry eyed New Dealers. We believe that the American peoples are realists and they realize that a lot of these fine phrases about planned economies, more abundant ways of life, and numerous alphabetic bureaus are hardly in season in the present emergency.

The American people are back of President Roosevelt when he says this war must be won. But they are tiring of the bickerings of the "palace guards," who still seem to think that wars are won by phrases and theories.

The election was John Doe speaking up and demanding "a little better run for his money."

AN ALLIED GAIN IN NEW GUINEA

In recapturing Kokoda, chief inland base of the Japanese in New Guinea, Allied forces under General MacArthur's command have made a notable gain, more than justifying the offensive campaign which they undertook several weeks ago.

After the Japs landed on the northern shore of the Papuan peninsula they moved toward Port Moresby, Allied base on the southern shore, scaling the Owen Stanley mountains and penetrating seemingly impassable jungles by bold and rapid forays. But they were stopped by Allied attacks after advancing to within thirty-two miles of Port Moresby.

The dash through the mountainous jungles apparently weakened the invaders. When the Allies struck back, there were considerable periods when the Japs eluded contact with the Australian-American forces. At only two or three points did they offer real resistance.

Now in possession of Kokoda, the Allies are in a better position to guard against further Japanese landings on the northern coast of eastern New Guinea. Already General MacArthur's bombers have thwarted a Japanese attempt to land strong reinforcements at Buna.

The Allies progress in New Guinea demonstrates, on a small scale, the technique that conceivably will have to be used in defeating the Japs in the South and Southwest Pacific. It is the same technique which our naval forces are using, in the fact of great difficulties, in the Solomons. It is the gradual but consistent and determined pushing back of the Japanese wherever they have managed to gain footholds. This inching back, presumably, must continue until we are within striking distance, from one or another direction, of Japan's home islands.

What lies ahead, apparently, is a long, hard fight, calling for the greatest possible effort at all times on our part. But Allied tactics are sound. We are driving the enemy back in New Guinea. We are trying to push him from the Solomons and drive him northward. With increased forces, including bombers, we should make more rapid progress.

The Parent Problem

By Gary C. Myers, Ph. D.

DRESSING SIMPLY AIDS DEMOCRACY

Now and then a Sunday school teacher writes me about the child who stops attending because some of the girls in her class had made slighting remarks about her clothes. In my reply I always suggest the teacher should try to influence mothers of the snobbish girls who did the harm.

Even in these times, mothers and their adolescent daughters have more to say at the Sunday dinner about the hat or dress or coat of some woman of the congregation than about the sermon. Easter is the day of the year when women parade to church in their finest. A mother of five little children writes:

"You may be pleased to know I've started to go to church and Sunday school. I enjoy the sermon, singing and the lessons. But some of the ladies in the church I can't like. There are some grand ones, especially the teachers, but many of the others act as if they are better than the average. They look at me to see if I am as well-dressed as they are and I guess I am not. Clothes have never been terribly important to me. I dress neatly and arrange my hair as attractively as I can but I hardly ever buy new clothing because my sister keeps me supplied. I like them as well as new ones. So when the ladies give me the once over I can't feel very religious, can I?"

Most organized religious groups, even most PTA's, have not promoted democracy in dress to the degree that anyone can be made to feel at ease in very simple, inexpensive clothes, if they're clean and tidy.

Net True Democracy

If, for instance, you are a member of a PTA in a community representing a wide range of social and economic levels, you must have noticed that those who don't have clothes of average or higher quality nor speak English fluently just don't attend the meetings. In this sense it is not a true democracy.

It has seemed to me that those who have been accustomed to finer clothes and the more modern ways and speak accurate English are in a strategic position to effect a change. How? By being dressed more plainly themselves at the meetings and proving their refinement in so great a degree that all others who might want to attend would feel at ease in their presence, even in very plain, inexpensive clothes.

In certain communities a similar contribution to democracy might also be effected in churches.

A certain high school girl who was to entertain her girls' club at her home one evening, appeared after dinner in her plainest, simplest dress. When asked by her mother if she was not going to dress up more, she replied, "No; one of the girls can't afford fine clothes. I want her to feel comfortable."

It seems to me this girl had a precious ideal which in the light of the present emergency, seems to stand out. It is worth promoting by parents, teachers and church leaders in these times.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. My daughter, two years old, never minded my leaving till a week ago. Now she cries and loses her temper and if she is eating, dashes her food and milk to the floor.

A. You and her father should show this child more affection, return to her and have the person caring for her in your absence also read to her. Aim not to leave while she is eating. When you are ready, go in a very matter-of-fact way; do not linger or return however much she cries. Be sure the person you leave her with is not a stranger and that she has skill in caring for this child.

Might as well center all power in Washington. People won't have any tax money left to support states, anyway.

THE LONGER THE QUICKER" How long does it take you to prepare one of your speeches?" asked a friend of President Wilson.

"That depends on the length of the speech," answered the President. "If it is a 10-minute speech, it takes me all of two weeks to prepare it; if it is a half-hour speech, it takes me a week; if I can talk as long as I want to, it requires no preparation at all. I am ready now."

There is little choice about religion. It must be the most important thing in life, or it must be superstitions nonsense.

The scrap drive really worked this time. Now if we could find some way to let the kids handle other war jobs.

Anyhow, you won't be taxed on what you think you are worth.

ADVERTISING

One enterprising restaurant owner in Montgomery, Ala., has figured out a way to get around the state law which prohibits the advertising of liquor by means of neon, electric or painted signs.

A four-foot sign appears on the front of the store reading in six-inch letters:

"We can't advertise it, but we've got it!"

A good man doesn't often blow his own horn because he's too poor to own one.

CONFESION

It must be rather difficult, with duster and with broom, to labor every morning long to tidy up a room.

When the toll is over and fair to have it all upset again by thoughtless, careless me.

It must be most annoying when you've got the parlor neat.

To have it tracked by someone who has failed to wipe his feet.

And it must be aggravating when you've straightened up the den.

To have a husband walk right in and muss it up again.

Money may still talk but it don't yell as loud as it used to.

For the sake of variety once a week we don't mind eating ham and eggs without ham.

Miss Markle will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader enclosing self-addressed, 3-cent stamped envelope.

Tomorrow—Philandering Males

"The sermon?" he replied. "Well, I don't know, it was sort of rambling like. But judging from the text, I concluded it was about cash boys."

"How utterly absurd," she remarked. "There wasn't such a thing as the fruit derived from labor a sweetest of all pleasures—Vaudevillians.

The one fault in a free press is that a man may have the power of a great publisher without having sense enough to use it safely.

LOOKING AT LIFE

—By ERICH BRANDOIS

Down in Santiago, Chile, they arrested a German spy who had given away the sailing of a convoy in a cablegram which had the innocent text:

"Kindest regards to mother and my little daughter."

Such a heartwarming message! Such nice sentiment—but to a spy only another tool of treachery.

It's so characteristic of the breed to use the finest instincts of the human being to ply their dirty trade.

Here was a man, named Alfred Cleiker, who was manager of a German bank in Santiago.

Respected by the community, a solid citizen, he stabbed his friends and hoss in the back.

And to do it he used the words of "mothers" and "daughter" words sacred to every decent human being.

Longer Hours In Industry Are Proposed

Secretary Wickard Says
Longer Hours In Plants
Is War Necessity

By HORACE COATS
(G. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Asserting that war factories lured 950,000 men from the nation's farm during the past year, Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard today proposed to congress that the hours of work in industrial plants be made longer.

In what may be the first move by administration officials to scrap the 40-hour week for the duration of the war, the cabinet officer, testifying before the Senate military affairs committee which is studying the critical manpower situation, offered a three-point program.

1. Deferment of the managerial type of farmer from military service until replacement has been provided.

2. Longer hours in industrial plants.

3. Continuance of relations with Mexico to draw a large number of workers from that country to ease the farm labor situation.

American agriculture last year lost 1,600,000 men," Wickard said. "Sixty per cent of these men are in industrial plants and 40 per cent are in the armed forces. Of the numbers in the armed forces approximately 30 per cent were drafted and 10 per cent enlisted.

"That drain was a serious drawing from the farm man power and caused the farmers of the country to draw from a source of supply of older men, women and youths."

Wickard said the experience in obtaining labor from Mexico this year presages the larger supply of that sort in 1943. The secretary also suggested it might be wise to insert in war contracts with industry that industry could not recruit from the agriculture man power source.

Resume Hearings On U.S. Manpower

Senate Military Affairs Committee Is Taking More Testimony On Issue

By HORACE M. COATS
(G. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The Senate military affairs committee today resumes its hearings on the vital manpower question, summoning Secretary of Agriculture Wickard and Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of both the maritime commission and the war shipping board.

Resumption of the committee hearings was ordered as Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) disclosed that a hearing will begin Friday on his resolution authorizing a full investigation into the manpower situation and Senator Hill (D., Ala.) declared that legislation providing for an universal draft "is inevitable."

Four bills are pending before the military affairs committee, aimed at the solution of the manpower problem.

Secretary Wickard was expected to give at least moral support to a recent proposal by Manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt that higher wages be provided for agricultural workers to relieve the critical farm labor dilemma, but to retain the present limit on prices of farm products.

Declaring that each passing day discloses facts that show manpower legislation is necessary, Sen. Hill said that the legislation will have to provide "by compulsion, for the use of men in the right places where they can make the greatest contribution to the war effort."

Rev. Rose Reports
Men In Camp Feel
'Home Front Week'

Pastor And Camp Observer
Reviews Survey Before
Kiwanis

The most of the men in military or naval service "the home front" remains the weakest point in the whole war effort. New Castle KIWANIS were told yesterday at The Castleton by Rev. J. Calvin Rose, pastor of Second U. P. church and home from a tour of camps and service centers as a member of the Joint Committee on Relation to Servicemen named by the Southern Presbyterian, Northern Presbyterian and United Presbyterian denominations.

He reported "high praise" for the USO and such service groups, but told his audience that a majority of the enlisted men he talked with believe the home front "is far too complacent" about the war.

Rev. Rose, who visited in Corpus Christi, Texas, San Antonio, Dallas, Kansas City and Chicago, traveled alone as many of the committee members did. He talked with officers, soldiers, sailors, marines and scores of civilians in those cities and on trains between camps.

He discussed the army and navy efficiency, the morale of the men in the camps, the work of civilian service groups and the morale of the men in uniform.

Rev. Rose intends to elaborate on his observations in sermons in his church.

New version: So high is grandeur to our dust; so near to God is man; when duty says "What will you bust?" the youth replies: "Japan."

A 190-mile stretch of the Chile-Argentina rail link being constructed will require 30 bridges, 20 tunnels and 15 trestles or viaducts, the Department of Commerce reports.

Trinidad has a shortage of laundry soap and the government has established standards for any made at home.

Close-up Picture Of Average Russian Is Given By Reporter

By JAMES E. BROWN
G. N. S. Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK Nov. 5—You don't eat if you don't work in Soviet Russia.

Everyone eats according to the value of his or her work. The best food in Russia today is to be found at the front. There are no luxuries for anyone, but the soldiers on the firing line know, at least, that nobody at home is faring better than they are.

The government and people have insisted the bulk of everything goes to the army. So, among the defenders of Stalingrad, there are many soldiers who are more worried about their mothers' and fathers' wives and children, than they are about themselves.

This is true of most armies, but in the Red army, it is based on the knowledge that the private is getting more than his wife. People behind the lines want it that way; it is all they can do in the face of the terrible casualty lists that come in every day.

Fat Men Are Rare
Fat men are so rare in Soviet Russia they are considered a curiosity. There is an American correspondent in Moscow who weighs over two hundred pounds, mostly muscle; he was once mentioned on several all-American football teams. But he is big, and he looks well-fed; consequently, he attracts attention on the streets. Small boys follow him, and women look at him admiringly; the military police, of course, are constantly stopping him and asking for his papers. He just doesn't look Russian.

state regards them as its most precious assets, along with the front-line fighters. The limited supplies of milk and sugar are reserved for them, and all necessary clothing is provided. Schools were closed in Moscow last year but are now reopened.

I recently visited a grammar school and asked questions of the boys and girls from the first grade to the eighth grade. In the classroom where the oldest boys and girls were seated, I finished my questions and turned to go, when one of the boys stood up and asked if I would answer some questions myself.

Of course, told him to fire away, and I learned more from their questions during the next ten minutes than I had during the previous two hours. They had a curious idea of America; it was, admittedly, a land of great technical progress, but Russia could catch up in a few years. One little girl, painfully embarrassed because she thought she was being impolite, asked me about lynchings, and another asked me about unemployment. They had heard in exaggerated form of all of America's social shortcomings, and manifestly were incredulous when I told them a little about our good points.

Quizzed By Russians
"Did you go to a university?" asked one boy.

I said yes.
"How much tuition did you pay?" I told him.

"I am going to a university," he said triumphantly, "and I will not have to pay anything."

But I had him there. "Oh, yes you will," I said. "You will have to pay 480 roubles a year."

He looked disconcertedly at the teacher, and she confirmed that no world have to pay. The charge has been made since the war started, and it is only about 40 dollars, but it helps to ease the state's burden. I then told them about our system of scholarships and extra work and told them it was possible for a boy to work his way through college.

"But I am a boy," said a little girl. "If he had someone dependent on his earnings he couldn't go, could he?"

"Probably not," I admitted.

Second Front?
Then, since the ice was broken, they opened up on me about the second front. It was obvious they had been waiting for a chance, but considered it a more delicate subject even than lynching. The Russians do not think we and the British have any obligation to fight their battles for them, but they believe Germany could have been defeated this summer with our aid.

"When will there be a second front?" I was asked.

I told them a second front would be formed when there was a reasonable chance of success; I did not tell them, as so many people have told me, that the middle east constitutes a second front. The Russian definition of a second front means an invasion of Europe.

"If we invaded the continent without adequate preparation and were defeated, the consequences to Russia would be more terrible than anything else. When we do invade, it must succeed," I added.

"Is there any sentiment in Britain and America to let Russia and Germany fight until they are both weakened and then finish off Germany alone?"

I told them 90 per cent of the British and American people are impatient to attack the enemy now. Such sentiment as they mentioned, if it exists at all, is too negligible to count.

Future Not Bright

So we parted friends, but the future is not bright for those children. Food grows scarcer every day, and many of them will be cold this winter. There is not enough coal for the factories, and people are working desperately to cut wood and dig peat. Houses will be cold, and such aids as kerosene and electric stoves will not help because there is no kerosene, and the electricity is turned off for several hours of the day.

Children have a nourishing meal in their schools, and workers in their factories, but there is a small percentage who have to live at home on their ration cards. And this is barely enough to keep alive.

I know a woman whose two daughters work in a factory. She has their three ration cards, but many of the items on the card are no longer available. By standing in long queues many wearisome hours, she can obtain enough tea, black bread, rice and occasionally meat for one normal person. Her daughter, of course, eat breakfast and supper at home, and they try to bring her things from their canter, but that is difficult because everybody else is trying to do the same thing.

Soviet Russia is facing a cold, hungry winter, but as the struggle becomes more bitter, the nation's determination to fight to a finish increases.

DIABETIS

One day one of our boys went rabbit hunting with his father. About noon his father missed him. He found him asleep in a fence corner. He thought it was kind of funny but allowed him to sleep awhile. When he tried to awaken him he could not do it. He was in a diabetic coma.

If you are overweight you are especially liable to get diabetes.

If you have diabetes you should wear a diabetes tag all the time.

If you go into coma, the police would know what to do when they find you. Also in case of an air raid if you were injured, the warden would get busy right away.

If you are diabetic the "cops" are your best friends. They are everybody's best friends all the time, anyhow.

Annual Trinity Parish Supper Held At Church

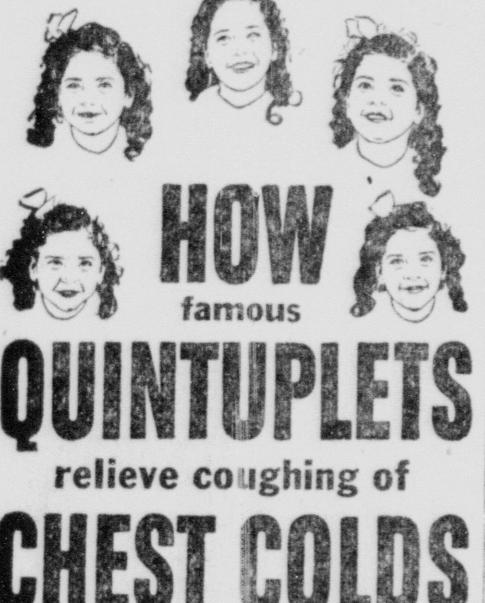

Rev. H. C. Weaver Of Sharon
And Rt. Rev. John C.
Ward Of Erie, Guest
Speakers

"The Christian way of life—giving supreme loyalty to God—freely and willingly and especially in these times we must all as one, work harder than ever as God's working force, to set the standards of the world. Each can have a real part in gaining victory for the sacrifices made by land, sea and air of loved ones in an effort to strengthen this great adventure—the work of God" was the thought conveyed by the Rt. Rev. John C. Ward of Erie, who needs no introduction to New Castle Episcopaleans, as he spoke at the annual parish supper held at Trinity church on Wednesday evening, November 4, in the guildroom.

In addition to Rev. Ward's inspiring message, the assemblage had as their other distinguished speaker, the Rev. Harold James Weaver, of Sharon a graduate of Kenyon College and Bexley Hall, Gambier. O. His address tied in with the Christianity and fellowship theme. He emphasized the thought that Christianity is the only answer to the world needs: "It is from Christianity, the teachings of Jesus Christ that all things have come," he quoted.

their campaigns. But still they will oppose inefficiency, needless waste and New Deal efforts to expand non-war reforms under the cloak of the emergency.

The election outcome pleased the Republicans tremendously and naturally served to depress many a Democrat. The Republicans now are free to criticize the administration's war efforts and, after January, will have the power to make their criticism effective with the aid of only a handful of dissident Democrats. And they will pursue this role without acquiring desponsibility for American success in the war. Setbacks and defeats will fall on Democratic shoulders.

Have Eye On 1944

It is no wonder the Republicans have an eye on 1944. For the next two years, they will have governors presiding over huge political organization in 24 of the most populous states of the Union. Indeed, these states will have a total of 303 electoral votes, when but 266 are needed to elect a president. As Landon himself said, the Republicans have elected every governor north of the Mason-Dixon line, save one, as compared to only four in the same territory in 1936.

In Tuesday's elections, the G.O.P. carried such populous states as Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, the whole farm belt, Washington, Oregon and California. For the next two years, Republicans will be erecting political machines in these states to aid in swaying public opinion and getting out the vote in 1944.

Landon Sees Appeal At Polls As Directed At War Management

Editor's note: Alf M. Landon, former governor of Kansas and Republican candidate for president in 1936, in the following article declares that the sweeping Republican gains scored in Tuesday's election came as a protest from the people against the Democratic administration's management of the war effort and war room.

The Rev. Robert M. C. Griswold, rector of Trinity church, gave the address of welcome, and expressed gratitude for the co-operation given by those in charge. He urged everyone to take the "Christian way of life" and to be friendly to his neighbor whether in church, on the street or in a group. Tribute was paid to L. J. Lewis for the work in the church canvas, and an impromptu campaign was launched. Robert M. Garrison spoke on the church reduction to this time. Harry Culiford was welcomed as a new member of the church vestry, and a special greeting was conveyed by Rev. Griswold in behalf of Mrs. Harry McKee, a devoted member, who was unable to attend.

Toastmaster of the evening, William (Bill) Francis was presented by Rev. Griswold who handled his part of the program humorously and most capably. He introduced the various speakers and added the bit of dash that kept the evening on rolling.

Rev. Charles Burton spoke in behalf of him and his wife, expressing appreciation for the kindnesses and courtesies shown them during their four year stay in New Castle. Rev. and Mrs. Burton will leave this month for Buffalo, N. Y., their home city, after serving a successful four years with St. Andrew's church of New Castle.

During the evening a humorous sketch entitled "Mr. Smith visits Mr. Jones" portraying a point in canvassing, was enacted by Mrs. LeRoy Shaffer, Harry Culiford, and L. A. Pearsall. Pep singing was also enjoyed, with Harry Culiford and Miss Isabel Johnson, accompanist.

ELECTION IS SEEN BY REPUBLICANS AS REAL MANDATE FROM PEOPLE

The election was not on economic conditions but on whether the management of the war was good or bad. The American people decided that it was not good.

The administration's failure to come to grips with many problems affecting every home in the country; its lack of vigorous and forceful leadership; its attempts to pass the buck to congress by not presenting a definite and forthright program until the last minute on so many vital problems; the bickering and political maneuvering within the administration's multiplicity of agencies, all of which means life and death to millions of American boys, turned the American people against the administration.

Concern that all these things and many others were going to cause prolonging of the war and therefore the unnecessary loss of many lives caused the American people to use their constitutional means of expressing their dissatisfaction and resentment with the management of men and materials.

The national administration was suffering from the fact that many candidates on the Democratic ticket sensed the reaction to the New Deal management and the New Deal attempt to use the war as a vehicle to further expand its idea of a regimented collectivist society. Sensing that reaction, they made their own campaigns without defense of the administration.

Instead of Democratic candidates all over the country speaking with lavish praise of the administration they were giving it silent treatment.

Resent Ding-Donging

The American people also resented the continual ding-donging from Washington that they were soft and weak when they felt that it was the administration that was soft and flabby. The American people resented the administration's blaming them, blaming the Congress, blaming the newspapers for what they felt was the administration's own failures.

They resented the administration's lack of frankness and honesty in the official war communications. The American people refused to accept the blame for the administration's mistakes. They refused to stand for the administration's maneuvers to place the blame for its own failures on others.

The Republican party has a great opportunity to stand for such necessary measures to avert disaster as a unified command, simplified war agencies, instead of the 57 varieties of conflicting agencies dealing with the same subject and all other subjects. The nation is entitled to a well balanced program covering rationing, inflation and manpower.

The people demand action on these things and feel that the administration's record of meeting each new and difficult situation by creating new bureaus and piling new agencies threatens disaster.

Leadership Needed

Judging from election returns, millions feel that this policy has already brought disaster. We need better planning and better direction. The Republican party should

Many Never Suspect Cause of Backaches

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many suffers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys and bladder's chief way of taking the excess trouble is by swelling.

They help most people pass about 3 p.m. a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits potassium to remain in your blood, it may cause leg pains, loss of energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or early urination, burning or sometimes there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poison waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ALLIED FORCES POUND RETREATING ARMY OF AXIS IN DESERT AREA

choice, a hitherto little known militarist plucked from obscurity and hoisted into a position of great responsibility.

When Rommel went to Berlin a few weeks ago to stand beaming on the stage of the Berlin Sportspalast as Hitler opened the annual Nazi winter relief campaign with a promise that Stalingrad would be captured, Von Stummel was placed in supreme command of the Axis troops in North Africa.

Just how he met his death was not made known. Except for the fact his removal from the scene of action was chalked up by the British as a major achievement, his death merely was listed among Axis casualties officially set down as "exceptionally high."

The daily communiqué issued by General Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, commander-in-chief of imperial forces in the middle east, left no doubt as to the progress of the battle.

Continue Advance

The eighth army continued to advance over the whole front," the statement said.

Only in the south near the Qattara salt marshes were a few isolated remnants of the disrupted Rommel forces holding out.

In the northern area where the British scored their main breakthrough and forced Rommel to retreat, the battered Germans and Italians withdrew under a screen of anti-tank guns and tanks.

Opposition from these forces, the communiqué said, failed to halt the British onslaught.

Gen. Alexander said that allied air forces were maintaining a steady bombardment of the fleeing Axis columns.

"Following heavy night attacks on Tuesday," the communiqué said, "allied bombers and fighter-bombers continued throughout yesterday to harass the enemy withdrawing along the coastal road.

"Enemy air activity was confined to attempted interceptions and one Stuka (dive-bomber) raid.

"The latter was successfully broken up and two Junkers 87's and one Messerschmitt 109 were destroyed.

"During the day we shot down 13 aircraft.

Score Heavily

"Our bombers and torpedo-carrying aircraft operating in the central Mediterranean Tuesday night scored hits on a heavily laden enemy merchant vessel which was brought to standstill and on a tanker in addition to three hits scored on escorting destroyers.

"An enemy schooner also was attacked off the coast of southern Sicily."

Throughout yesterday no Axis plane crossed over the coast of the British Mediterranean island bastion of Malta, Gen. Alexander said.

The communiqué said that 14 allied aircraft were missing as a result of the foregoing operations.

A general Axis retreat was forced when infantry and tanks units under command of Lieut. Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery pierced Rommel's main defense line southwest of El Alamein.

War Nurses Travel Light; No Room For Do-Dads In Luggage

By JEANNE HOFMANN

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Remember the post-cards of the pre-war debutantes who used to embark on a voyage with so much luggage that her stateroom looked like a wardrobe display?

That day like the hoop skirt and tricycle is over. The girls who today are joining Uncle Sam's wartime "coming out party"—the army, navy, and Red Cross nurses—travel lighter than an air-conditioned briefcase. They have to!

Only one suitcase, one small foot locker, and a duffel-bag are allotted to the girls in white who follow the fighting men overseas. After the regulation uniforms, top-coats, shirts, shoes, and a dozen clean white outfits have been packed, there's not much room left for feminine luxuries.

But the girls, bless 'em, are Ph.D.'s at the art of cramming in cosmetics, toothpaste, thumbtacks, flatirons, and occasional horseshoes. Should a lock suddenly spring, and the whole inner works be revealed, pink undies and lace do-dads would be conspicuously missing in a nurse's handbag.

Instead a solid bank of soap and cleansing tissue (proportions resembling the great wall of China) would line the grip, along with manicure supplies, hairpins, sewing kits, dark glasses, scissors, whisk broom, perfume, alarm clocks, and coffee pots.

Going To War

"After all," explained Miss Florence Johnson, director of the New York Red Cross chapter, "these girls are going to war. Cargo space is vital. Almost never do they take civilian dresses or fancy accessories. But oh, the letters we get from overseas asking for more toilet articles!"

To date, the girls have been getting most of their supplies from the quartermaster corps. But the lads are a poor drugstore when a gal is stuck down in New Caledonia for a zoot suit zipper.

Actually, nurses use less make-up than most others of the fairer sex.

Charge German Spy Center In Chile

Committee Reports Espionage
In Close Co-Operation With German Embassy There

(International News Service)
MONTEVIDEO, Nov. 5.—Charges that a German spy system has been functioning in Chile in close cooperation with the German embassy as the center of espionage in the Americas, were made public on Wednesday by the Inter-American emergency advisory committee for political defense of the continent.

News of the greatest importance to the Nazis and detrimental to the defense of the Americas has been transmitted to Berlin, the committee declared.

The evidence, contained in a memorandum to the Chilean government last June by U. S. Ambassador Claude G. Bowers, called attention to specific illegal activities of German agents. The document was founded on many wireless messages intercepted by the U. S. federal communication commission.

This information covered arrival and departure of ships and details of military aid by the United States to Latin-American nations, as well as Latin-American defense measures, it was said.

PREPARE NOW FOR THE 1943 FAMILY GARDEN

A successful home vegetable garden is dependent upon the soil as much as on the skill of the gardener or climatic conditions.

You can start right now to improve your soil for next year. An earlier start would have been better if green crops like ryegrass or rye had been sown to turn under next spring for soil improvement.

If cover crops have not been sown, organic materials can be used instead. Such materials as leaves, dry grass, sod, green grass, and other refuse may be available. Make a compost by piling these materials in layers until the pile is 3 or 4 feet high and flat on top to retain water. In case the materials are light and might blow away, a thin layer of soil can be placed on top to hold them down.

A good manure compost is made by taking 70 pounds of ammonium sulfate, 60 pounds of ground limestone, and 20 pounds of superphosphate which are mixed thoroughly and then mixed with the organic materials in making the compost pile.

Next spring when the garden is spaded or plowed, turn the compost under the same as manure. Both fertility and organic matter, similar to manure, will be added in this way.

It is expected that regular garden fertilizer will be hard to get next year, and it may not be available at all, especially the high nitrogen fertilizers. By turning under organic materials the problem will be largely solved. The decaying organic matter will liberate plant food, conserve moisture during dry periods, and keep the soil loose for better root development.

Some gardeners will plow or spade their gardens or part of them this fall, placing leaves to which the fertilizer ingredients have been added in the spacing trench or furrow and leaving the ground in the rough over winter. Next spring they will prepare the seedbed by simply raking the surface.

FLOWER GARDEN HINTS FOR NOVEMBER

With the coming of cold weather, most of the work of the flower gardener is moved inside during the month of November.

One of the tasks is the storing of dahlias, tubers and gladiolus corms. Make certain that the tops have been cut off, and store the tubers and corms in sand or on trays where they will have a sufficient amount of aeration. Keep them in a cool cellar of similar temperature to that of a potato cellar.

Huacinths, narcissi, tulips and similar bulbs can be potted for forcing for winter blooming. A sandy loam soil is used. At the bottom of each pot place a half-inch layer of pebbles, small stones, or gravel to insure good drainage. The potted bulbs must be well watered and the pots plunged into the ground where they are protected from freezing by a covering of leaves or straw, or they can be placed in a cool, dark cellar and permitted to remain until the pots have become well filled with roots. Then bring the potted bulbs into the light.

Flowering and foliage plants in the conservatory or window garden need attention now. When weather conditions are mild, open window about noon to give the plants as much sunshine as possible. Syringing will discourage insect pests. Where there are not too many plants to move, this operation can be carried on successfully in the kitchen sink.

There still is time to set out hardy bulbs for spring display. Be sure to get the bulbs from reliable dealers. Continue to clean up the garden beds, since much time will be saved for other work in the spring. Branches of shade and evergreen trees which have been removed to permit air circulation can be used satisfactorily as a protection from alternate freezing and thawing.

Gather some good garden soil and place it in buckets in the cellar for use in repotting house plants or for the further rooting of rooted cuttings which have been started indoors.

Consider the use of a living Christmas tree as a gift this year. Such trees can be dug and placed in large tubs to become established before the Christmas holiday season. These trees can be kept outdoors in a sheltered place and watered weekly if the weather is mild. After such trees are used for Christmas decorations, they can be removed to a cool part of the cellar and watered thoroughly for several weeks before being placed outdoors for later transplanting into a permanent position.

Provide feeding stations for birds. Pieces of suet on other fat may be hung from branches of trees or tall shrubs. Be sure that such material is high enough to keep cats from disturbing the birds.

TO TRAIN MORE TESTERS FOR DAIRY HERD GROUPS

A short course of training for testers of dairy herd improvement associations will be given at the Pennsylvania State College from noon, December 7, to noon, December 19.

Several similar courses have been given this year, but changes in the corps of testers brought on by war conditions demand frequent replacements. Nearly three-fourths of the 125 testers in the state have been replaced since January. Among the new testers are 10 girls who took the training offered in the college short courses.

Detailed information on the next course can be obtained from the Agricultural Extension office, 206 Post Office building, New Castle, Pa.

The official state bird of Oregon is the western meadowlark.

Huge Ground Crew Is Needed To Keep U. S. Planes Flying

Authorities Point Out It Takes Fifteen Men On Ground To Keep One Plane In Air

By W. ARTHUR DRYDEN JR.,
(L. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—It takes 15 men on the ground to keep one man and his plane in the air, was told today by the army air forces in a report graphically detailing the duties of America's unsung heroes who "Keep 'Em Flying."

From Africa to Alaska, from India to Iceland, the men of the Technical Training Command are doing the job which keeps America's bombers in the air. Thousands upon thousands of mechanics and technicians are necessary to sustain the army's air armada around the world.

There are 12 groups of technicians who keep the planes in the air—the armorers, the mechanics, the parachute rigger, the link trainer instructors, the weather men, the propeller testers, electricians, machinists, welders, teletypists, photographers and physical training instructors.

All Equally Important
To determine which of the skilled branches is the most important would be out of the question, since they all depend upon each other to maintain efficiency, the report said.

One, however, remains paramount in the maintenance of air planes—the mechanics. Biggest and most robust branch of the "Keep 'Em Flying" schools is that of airplane mechanics. In the schools, mechanics are trained much the same as the flying pilots, and their job is highly specialized.

"There is a strong relationship between the training of pilots and the training of equally heroic ground crews," said Maj. Gen. Walter R. Weaver, chief of the Air Forces Technical Training Command. "There is, and must be, a mutual respect between the airmen and the mechanic. It would be fatal for a pilot to distrust the men who have charge of the plane's maintenance."

Depends On Rigger
The pilot must also have unswerving faith in the man who packs and folds his parachute—the rigger, who received a highly specialized training which involves long hours of patient instruction and practice. As the pilot pulls the ripcord and looks above him to see if the chute billows out, he thanks the man who spent many hours making that lifeline.

The weather man, too, plays an important part in maintaining a huge airforce. The pilot must know before he goes aloft how the weather will look after he gets over enemy territory. Weather may be a deciding factor in an air war. Contrary to popular belief, the weather observer is not a prophet. He is not concerned with foretelling what conditions are going to be. It is his task merely to observe and report so that the pilot may draw his own conclusions as to how the weather will turn out and what the best plan will be.

But even to "merely observe" requires long weeks of observing under adverse conditions, so that the observation may be helpful when the going gets tough in Germany.

AROUND CITY HALL

East sidewalk in Sampson street shows the worse for vehicular travel. It is reported that cars drive from a parking lot into the carway without using a driveway. Gravel is scattered over the sidewalk. Any one could stumble on a round stone and break a leg. It is said the out-of-town bank which controls the property has been notified of the sidewalk condition, hence, it will be their hard luck if someone is injured on the sidewalk, according to city officials.

Safety Director David O. Davies is deeply concerned over the reported establishment of detours without the fire department being notified before they are installed.

Instructions to air raid warden, residing close to traffic lights, will go a long way toward aiding the police when a black-out occurs. Lights here are on different controls.

Livestock, Plant Specialists At Penn State Discuss Food
Production, Disease

(Special To The News)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 5.—
Increases in both number and weight of pigs in 1943 are called for in the food production program, announce livestock specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. The national goal includes a 10 per cent increase in spring-farrowed pigs and an increase of 10 pounds over the 1942 figure for every hog marketed.

With new saws hard to get, old saws will have to be fitted for use in the woods, point out foresters of the Pennsylvania State College. Rusty saws can be polished with emery cloth or sandpaper wet with kerosene. The teeth will have to be jointed, set and sharpened to fit the saw for efficient use.

Control of diseases of vegetables can be helped by rotation or burning of garden trash, say plant disease specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. Rotation is best because it conserves valuable organic matter, which is destroyed when trash is burned to kill disease-causing organisms.

Sheepmen now have an effective treatment for nodular worms of sheep in phenothiazine. Penn State livestock specialists explain that the control is important because the worms damage the upper intestines, which are sued for surgical surgeries.

Penn State bee specialists report that many bees are short of food and will have to be fed sugar syrup this fall.

Income payments to individuals in the United States during the first eight months of this year aggregated $70,834,000,000, 22 per cent greater than for the like period of 1941, according to the Department of Commerce reports.

Governor-Elect At Harrisburg

Gen. Martin Confers With Governor James Over Plans For Coming Term

REPUBLICANS HAVE CONTROL IN STATE

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
G. N. S. Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Nov. 5.—Governor-elect Edward Martin conferred at the capital today with Gov. Arthur H. James and other Republican leaders as plans were shaped for the new administration which will take over the affairs of state in January.

Elected in Tuesday's balloting by a majority of approximately 218,000 votes, along with a Republican general assembly, the governor-elect told neighbors at his Washington, Pa., home shortly before he left for Harrisburg that "I'll be busy. We've got to get things moving because of the war effort. It takes time, you know."

Virtually complete returns from the state's 8,135 precincts gave Martin a total of approximately 1,369,000 votes, while his Democratic opponent, Auditor General F. Clair Ross, received 1,142,000. Martin's running mates for lieutenant governor, secretary of internal affairs, justice of the supreme court, judge of the superior court and congressmen-at-large received similar majorities.

G.O.P. Regains Control

In addition, the Republicans regained control of the Pennsylvania congressional delegation, electing 13 or 19 of the state's 33 representatives, as against 14 or 15 for the Democrats. The Democrats at present control 17 seats to the Republicans' 16, with one vacancy. The result in the 22nd congressional district was in doubt, with Chester B. Gross, Republican, leading the veteran Democratic incumbent, Harry L. Haines, by only 166 votes, with the soldiers' ballots still to be tabulated.

The Republicans won a commanding lead in the state House of Representatives, which they lost to the Democrats in the 1940 election. According to the chief clerks' office, complete but unofficial tabulations showed 132 Republicans and 73 Democrats elected, but with the result still in doubt in several counties. Thus, the G.O.P. overthrew the commanding 126 to 82 lead which the Democrats had until now in the lower chamber.

The Republicans retained their 32 to 18 margin in the Senate and may gain a seat when complete returns are in from one doubtful district. They failed, however, to secure the 34 votes needed for senatorial confirmation of gubernatorial nominations.

Martin carried 57 of the state's 67 counties, with the Republican stronghold of Philadelphia exhibiting surprising Democratic strength and giving him a majority of only 500 votes, a margin which may be changed when absentee soldiers' ballots are tabulated. Martin lost his home county of Washington but carried Butler, his opponent's county.

The 10 counties carried by Ross were: Allegheny, Berks, Cambria, Columbia, Elk, Fayette, Greene, Lackawanna, Westmoreland and Washington.

Tomorrow She'll Do a Good Job at War Work Because—

SHE IS SMART ABOUT LIGHT!

She knows that eye-strain from improper lighting during her "off work" leisure moments would make her unusually fatigued at bedtime and dull in the morning when she should be vigorous for the day's work ahead. That is why she provides enough light properly diffused and near enough to make reading easy and untiring.

You should use at least a hundred watts bulb fairly close to your work for any important seeing task. Remember—the best of artificial lighting is one to two hundred times better than nature provides outdoors under the shade of a tree.

Good eyes and good nerves are vital to a country extending its full effort to the war program. See that every member of your family is provided with proper light to function best in this national emergency.

MASQUERADE

Mr. and Mrs. George Dieter were hosts to the Cub Pack on Friday evening. There were 35 present which included other than the Cubs, Scout Executive John J. Finney, and Mrs. Finney of New Castle. Scoutmaster Irwin Ropp and Mrs. Ropp, Parents, den chiefs and 3 Bobcats. At the business meeting Ralph Brown, Billie Clark and Jimmie Goode received their Lion Books, and a Lion Emblem was given Thomas Wallace. Games were played and a very fine lunch served.

In war time these problems are seriously aggravated.

There is definite economic and social loss to these children. Standards of living and education are lowered.

Fathers should budget savings to care for their children.

GRANGE MEETING

Because of election the grange held their meeting on Wednesday evening instead of the regular Tuesday. The officers for the coming year were nominated. Games were played and refreshments served. At the next meeting, the election will take place and a soup supper will be served by the men.

New Castle Stages Defensive Workout

Sanfilippo-Currie On Side-lines; Campbell Here Friday Night

VARSITY IMPRESSIVE IN DRILL YESTERDAY

Defensive football underwent a general overhauling yesterday as a hustling band of New Castle high athletes neared the completion of drills for Friday night's Taggart stadium struggle with Campbell Memorial high.

The starting whistle, an eight o'clock ceremony, will send the unbeaten 'Canes in quest of their eighth V of the campaign.

In yesterday's maneuvers, the second team remained on the offense throughout, employing Memorial plays. The varsity was unusually sharp as it disorganized a number of thrusts.

Tom Joseph Hurt

During the scrimmage, Tom Joseph, south side athlete, who made such a remarkable showing in last week's Scott rout, was injured and left the playing field.

The first team lineup was sprinkled with new faces. Elkins Brothers was rushed in at left guard in place of Tom Sanfilippo, who is still ailing with a "charley horse" on his right leg. Tom, as a result, may sit out Friday.

Russ Currie, still bothered by a left knee injury, watched his mates train. The speedy right half reported improvement and probably will start.

Aside from this the squad is in fine fettle for the invading Ohioans.

Coach Bridenbaugh will make a last-minute check-up tonight under the lights, when the 'Canes march through a light session.

Campbell is in top form for what has been tagged as "the big game".

Coach Knapic has designed a lot of special stuff to toss at the unbeaten Pa. New eleven.

Loaded with veterans, Memorial figures to give the localities quite an argument.

Loads of Experience

Tom Matai, 170-pound left half, and Joe Markovich, 210-pound fullback, lead Memorial's offense from a single wing formation. The pair has hammered through all kinds of defenses, marking up box car like gains.

The speedy line is manned by experienced hands. The entire left side of the wall is the same as in '41.

For Bob Lee, Russ Currie, John Zubkowski, Harvey Burris, Dave Genginger and Jesse Gunn, the fracas marks the last home appearance.

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner today announced that Campbell will be well represented in the cheering stands.

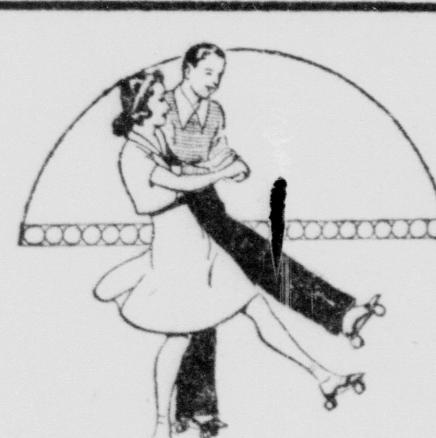

With a break in the weather, the galaxy may be one of the largest of the campaign.

Tickets are on sale at The Sporting Goods Store, 105 North Mercer street.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Two candidates for Notre Dame freshman football are John Pehar of Cathedral high school, Los Angeles, Calif., who towers 6 feet 6 1/2 inches and weighs 270 pounds; and Jim Tharp, of Jesuit high school, New Orleans, La., who stands 6 feet 5 1/2 inches and weighs 260. They should make nice playmates for John ("Tree") Adams, sophomore tackle who stands 6 feet 7 inches and weighs 225 pounds. All three are too tall for the draft, according to current regulations.

Church Cage Loop Opens November 27

Twelve Team Circuit Organized During Meeting In Y. Wednesday Night

New Castle's church basketball league was organized during a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night.

Team represented included:

St. Vitus, St. George, Epworth, First Presbyterian, First Baptist, Second U. P., Third U. P., Croton Methodist, Central Christian, St. Mary's, Wesley Methodist and Fifteenth Israel.

The loop will function as one unit with each team playing 11 games in each half. Winner of each half will play for the title, B. Winter announced.

Practice session dates will be announced soon.

Opening games will be played on Friday, November 27.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Athletes from every branch of sport are in the service and every day sees others enter. The latest to sign is Lew Riggs, infielder for the Brooklyn Dodgers. He was introduced at Camp Croft, S. C. Johnny Beazley, Cards' pitcher, is a member in the air corps at Camp Forrest.

Empress Hanover, full-blooded sister of Shirley Hanover, winner of the Hambletonian Stakes in 1937, brought a price of $3,500 yesterday as the first war-time auction in the Standard Bred Horse Sale company at Harrisburg. The filly was sold to Sheppard and Hostetter of Hanover and will race under their colors. About 70 horses were sold, the prices ranging from $70 to $3,500. Lady Evelyn from the Calumet Farms, Ogdensburg, N. Y., brought $2,500, second high. She was bought by Mrs. Francis Dodge Johnson of Detroit.

Slippery Rock will play at Edinboro in their final game of the season Saturday. Because of transportation troubles the Rockets game with Ithaca has been cancelled. The Rockets soccer team will play Carnegie Tech soccer Saturday at Slippery Rock.

Judge K. M. Landis has ruled outfielder James Mallory a free agent. He played with Charlotte in the Piedmont league ... Youngstown college travels to play Geneva at Beaver Falls Saturday ... Chalmers won the $2,500 added Heisey handicap at Pimlico yesterday, going the six furlongs in 1:12 4-5 over a slow track.

Russ Currie, still bothered by a left knee injury, watched his mates train. The speedy right half reported improvement and probably will start.

Connell, a senior hailing from Norwalk, Conn., booted a 20-yard field goal, scored one touchdown and kicked two extra points for the undefeated Eagles in their smashing victory over the Hoyas.

All season, Connell has been one of the Eagles' stars, hurling passes, plunging for yardage and doing most of the team's booting.

As a sophomore, Connell burst into the news when he scored a touchdown against Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl game. He played quarter and halfback last year.

Connell is a star baseball player with major league possibilities.

He worked at the Bath, Me., Iron Works last summer and played baseball there.

Julian Adamczyk started as a running guard but was shifted to the back as a blocker. Without a doubt, Julian is one of the finest blockers in this district. Julian's value to the team is best shown by the fact that Shenango dropped a decision to Evans City and tied Hopewell when Julian was out of the lineup.

Frank Adamczyk, Julian's cousin, plays fullback on offense and either tackle or guard on defense.

According to Shenango rooters who have watched players come and go, Frank is undoubtedly one of the best in Shenango's history. He has perfect timing and is a team player. He is a classy passer and exceedingly alert on defense.

Shenango bids for its fourth victory against two losses and a tie.

Coach Eddie Nahas reports his boys in fine shape for the farewell tiff.

Westminster college anxiously awaits its embroil with Grove City college at Grove City on Saturday afternoon. The setto pairs two of the most bitter rivals in the district.

Bessemer and Union Township said good-bye to the pigskin sport last week.

Job, Report

RICKY RESPECTS FRISCH'S ABILITY

By JACK MAHON
(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Though we are not being exactly original—since everyone from Broadway Rose to Jim Farley has been mentioned for the job—we'd like to inform you today that the next manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers may be none other than good old Fordham Frankie Frisch!

That's not a guess. It's the report of one of our most highly paid personal gestapo agents, who does not shoot off his mouth just to show off his pearly white molars. Frisch is highly regarded by Branch Rickey, new president and general manager of the Dodgers, and as we get it, may come to Brooklyn, if he can secure a release from his current employers, the Pittsburgh Pirates.

No Offer Made

No offer has yet been made, as far as we can learn, but Rickey undoubtedly will take up the matter in the near future. He is scheduled to report to his down-town Brooklyn office this afternoon to begin his long-awaited job of reconstruction on the Gowanus Darlings.

While Frisch is the No. 1 man in the brain's plans at the moment, he may not be released by President Bill Benswanger of the Pirates.

Each club has to file a reserve list each winter and no man on it, including the manager, can negotiate for a new job without a written release.

Frisch, who once worked for Rickey and Sam Breadon as a manager of the Cardinals from 1933 through 1938, finished fifth, first, second, second, fourth and sixth with the team before shifting over to the Pirates.

He succeeded Harold (Pie) Traynor at the helm of the Pittsburgh club at the end of the '39 season and, with rather flimsy material, hasn't had much success with that club. The Pirates finished in the second division this season and Frankie undoubtedly would jump at an offer from Rickey—h—Owner Benswanger unlocked his chains.

While Rickey respects Frisch's baseball ability we understand he also wants to have some of the fire and aggressiveness the Gowanus faithful love, remain at Ebbets Field*

Shotton Out?

For this reason, we're told, Burt Shotton, while highly respected by Rickey, does not figure as prominently in the brain's plans as Frisch. Shotton, a quiet-speaking gentleman, has been coaching at Cleveland, and has had his name mentioned, along with 5,698 others, as the successor to the lip.

If Benswanger should refuse to release Frisch or if Frank can't come to terms with Rickey (both remote possibilities) we understand the brain will probably go along with the organization as it was this year and pick his manager from the dugout crew of 1942.

Should that be the case the new manager will be Charlie (Chuck) Dressen. Wanna bet?

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5.—Figuring the Buckeyes might launch a sudden passing attack Saturday, Coach Charley Bowser had his Pitt Panthers sharpening their pass defense today in preparation for this week end's game with Ohio State at Columbus. The Panthers still have three first stringers on the injury list.

PITTSBURGH.—Coach Buff Donelly shifted Forrest Hall, fleet-footed sophomore halfback from Oil City, to a starting position today to add pep to the offense of his Duquesne Dukes, who meet St. Mary's here Saturday. The Gaels worked out twice yesterday at near-by St. Vincent.

PHILADELPHIA—Two of Penn's 1941 aces—Tailback Paxson Gifford and Wingback Joe Kane—looked today as possible opponents against Navy at Franklin Field Saturday because of their excellent play after slow starts this campaign.

VILLANOVA, Pa.—Scout George (Doc) Jacobs warned the Villanova Wildcats today that the Iowa State team they face in Shibe Park Friday night are a "constant scoring threat from any position on the field."

PHILADELPHIA—Coach Ray Morrison indicated today that six freshmen, three sophomores and two seniors may start for Temple against Boston College Saturday. Bill Wally, sophomore wingback, was expected to crash the opening lineup.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—He got his promotion from the Minor-Minors to the Jersey City Giants of the International league after toiling two-no-hit games in as many weeks, but the army called before he had a chance to demonstrate his mound ability for the giants. Today, however, Neil Saulia, of Brooklyn, has third no-hitter to his credit. Saulia got his third blank-out pitching for the "Skaggs," service men's team of the Air Corps Technical school at Miami Beach. It was the first no-hit contest ever recorded in the Army Air Forces Baseball league.

INJURY-RIDDLED

Charles Bowser not only had a small squad to begin with, but he has been plagued with injuries.

Since the start of the season he has lost Norb Gestner and Bill Kyle, starting ends; Joe Salvucci, starting right tackle; Larry Brainer, senior sophomore center. In addition, Pete Fuerich, number two quarterback and a sophomore with three from school; and Bill Skertich, reserve halfback, left for the army on Saturday.

Army "Up"

Before anybody goes completely overboard on Notre Dame and stamps this as another show-in for the Irish, it might be wise to consider the fact that Army points for this game every year and would count the loss to Pennsylvania as well worth it if that means they will be "up" for this one and able

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Football frenzy reaches its annual peak in New York next Saturday afternoon, and it won't be a pair of local elevens up there at Yankee stadium belting the daylights out of each other for the edification of some 70,000 bug-eyed addicts. Paradoxically, the piece de resistance (please pardon my foreign accent) will, as usual, be provided by a couple of invaders from outside the city limits—Army and Notre Dame.

No place in the nation will work up more fever this season over a football game than New York for this one, and I'm not overlooking Athens, Jigia, where Jigia will meet Jigia Tech later in the year.

Great Show Annually

Not only are Army and Notre Dame intruders upon the metropolitan football scene, as they have been for years in building up this rivalry, but not too many New Yorkers ever went to either school. It's a great show, though, and generally the football is fiery and dramatic, and that's what the New Yorkers go for. And also the football folks for miles around.

From what I can gather, Notre Dame figures to win this one in keeping with what seems appropriate to this time to be a custom. Army hasn't won in this tussle since 1931 and has won only five and tied three times.

Notre Dame is rolling again now after being deadlocked by Wisconsin and beaten by Jigia Tech, and has that "T-formation" system rolling. Stanford, Iowa Pre-flight, Illinois and Navy all have been taken in stride in games subsequent to the setbacks, whereas Army was bowled over by Penn last week to drop from among the select few with perfect records.

The sages say, however, that any team capable of beating Lafayette, Cornell, Columbia and Harvard in a row—before losing to Penn—as Army did, can also muster enough to stop even Notre Dame as she's a-rolling now.

They say two questions are involved:

1. How many of its best backs will Army be able to put on the field in good condition? Hank Mazur and Ralph Hill are doubtful starters and Tom Lombardo definitely is out.

2. Can Army stop Angelo Bertilli's passing? He has completed 40 of 86 passes for 621 yards so far.

Coach Earl (Red) Blaik of Army would give a fistful of his auburn locks to get the answer to those questions, but definitely and positively, any time prior to 2 o'clock.

All Notre Dame Hands Fit Again

(International News Service)

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 5.—All

Notre Dame cripples were pronounced fit today as the Irish took a light workout before leaving for New York to meet Army.

Saturday's game will pit Notre Dame's star quarterback, Angelo Bertilli, against the Cadets' triple threat ace, Hank Mazur. Bertilli's passes have gained 622 yards for Notre Dame this season while Mazur has trudged 346 yards for Army or 7.5 yards a trip in five games.

Statistics show that Mazur has been ably supported by Ralph Hill, right half, who has gained 76 yards in 23 trips, and George Troxell, pfele fullback, with 267 yards in 63 tries.

Many Enjoyable Club Meetings Take Place At Various Homes In Community

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 5.—The United War Fund drive reached the $5,625.25 mark on the fourth day of the campaign and if the daily gains continue as well as they have day by day so far, the goal of $18,300.00 should be reached by the end of the campaign which ends a week from this Friday.

No financial reports have been received yet from the Aetna-Standard Engineering Company, Ellwood Forge Company, Ellwood City Forge Company, United Tube Company, Ellwood Company, Beaver Enamel Company, Ellwood Products Company, Caverly Wire Co., American Steel Company or Ellwood Iron and Wire Company.

Soliciting has started at these firms and early reports state that the workers are giving their share to put the campaign across. Dr. H. E. Helling, chairman of the campaign, stated today that it will take every penny that can be collected to put the drive over the top and he is hoping that everyone will give something to the campaign.

Captain Carl Andreason of the Lawrence County Salvation Army and also head of the local branch here, stated that the heavy war work requirements on the Salvation Army make it necessary that the United War Fund here go over the top so that Ellwood City's Salvation Army can continue to help build army morale.

The double red feather stickers appearing in the homes and cars shows that a contribution has been made to the United War Fund. If any local citizen who has been missed in the drive wishes to make a contribution to this War Fund they are urged to make their checks out to the United War Fund
